Think about the quality of distance learning. Which words come to your mind?

Three Take-Home-Messages

A bird's eye view on distance learning

It is worthwhile to take a step back to perceive a bigger picture

#1

The diversity of items that are part of quality may be wider than you think

Stay open minded of what actually constitutes quality

Not only lecturers...

#3

The actors involved in quality of distance learning are more diverse than expected

Results (pre-covid19)

Main recommendations already achieved

(done in connection with the pandemic)

- ✓ Strategy - display an institutional positioning
- ✓ Integration in the analysis of major risks
- ✓ Centralise existing offer and further develop teacher training
- ✓ Ensure technological support at large scale
- ✓ Integration of the notion of off-campus examination in the reflection on e-assessment
- ✓ Circulation of recommendations for online exams
- ✓ « Distance » items in teaching evaluation

Main recommendations still to work on here special focus on actors

➤ Teacher training

- promote the exchange of practices
- promote teamwork: teacher + designer + technician + tutor + coordinator +
- Integrate e-skills into HR policy (PENS/PAT, recruitment/continuing training), complete the training of new teachers
- Finalize the e-skills frameworks (teachers, students), define the areas of skill development, develop the tools / training / resources accordingly

➤ Pedagogical expertise related to e-learning

- as support at the faculty level as a complement to common services
- introduce it in the process of validation of programs
- integrate it into decision-making processes, particularly those related to the adoption of technological tools for teaching

➤ Strategy

- fully integrate e-learning in the institution strategy
- document the advantages and disadvantages of the hybrid/distance format: launch studies and make the results available to teaching staff

➤ Evaluation

- Expand the use of Learning Data Analytics from Moodle, ensuring anonymity, in order to contribute to the improvement of the system, especially in terms of student experience
